Northern Colorado MD: an affordable prescription

Call it an information prescription.

This second installment of Northern Colorado M.D. represents the region's most-comprehensive local medical directory, providing key data on almost 1,300 of Northern Colorado's medical establishments and an even greater number of physicians.

Northern Colorado M.D. serves as a companion piece to the Northern Colorado Health & Wellness Summit, taking place June 25, 2003, in Fort Collins.

Included in this publication are listings of medical clinics, hospitals, long-term-care facilities, medical-products manufacturers and much more. Listings provide a variety of information, such as name, address, phone and fax numbers, and, for many listings, expanded information on physicians and specialties.

But that's not all. Northern Colorado M.D. also includes articles designed to inform users about the vagaries of the health-care industry, examining the issues of importance to the region's medical practitioners and consumers.

Future annual editions will find more articles, and even deeper data, designed to make healthcare decisions easier for business owners and the general public.

Northern Colorado M.D. is distributed to every clinic listed in the directory, as well as to subscribers to The Northern Colorado Business Report. Other copies are distributed in bulk at local hospitals and clinics and sold at retail establishments.

Preparing a research endeavor of this complexity requires a great deal of assistance. We would first like to thank Poudre Valley Health System, the Poudre Health Services District, Greeley Medical Clinic, Longmont United Hospital, Platte Valley Medical Center and Banner Health System for providing us with a wealth of data that made our job easier.

Secondly, thank you to Sonoko Bayes and Kris Mascarenas for their research efforts.

And special thanks to our sales force, led in this project by Lee Porter, and our sponsor, Poudre Valley Health System.

Northern Colorado M.D. is available for download online at datajoe.ncbr.com, our online database and story archives. The directory is also available on CD-ROM in Microsoft Excel or tab-delimited formats.

Keep in mind that any research project, especially a first-time effort, carries with it substantial risk of error and omission. If we mistakenly omitted your facility, or if your information is incorrect, please call (800) 440-3506 and let us know. Or use the form on page 80 of this edition, and fax it to us at (970) 221-5432.

And although this directory won't publish again for another year, corrections and additions will be made immediately to our online database.

Finally, we welcome your suggestions for changes or improvements to Northern Colorado M.D.

Enjoy!

Shopping the letters: Benefits managers scramble to cover

By Tom Hacker

Business Report Correspondent

Three-letter acronyms, shorthand by which health insurance plans are known to employers and those who work for them, are flip-flopping as benefits administrators scramble for ways to contain costs while still offering coverage.

As insurance prices have soared higher, HMOs yield to PPOs with CDHs making a run for the market — and making sense of it all requires more brainpower than employers have ever had to apply to the task.

A spate of surveys over the past year has shown employers shifting gradually from health maintenance organizations (HMOs) to preferred provider organizations (PPOs), with some forgoing the choice, moving toward consumer-driven health plans (CDHs) as a way to streamline their benefit offerings.

The jumble begs for some definitions:

■ HMOs, for two decades making up the dominant health insurance market sector, plug participants into a provider network that offers services for flat, up-front monthly fees with no deductibles, with a primary care physician handling referrals to outside providers.

■ PPOs are similar, but care is paid for as it is received instead of in advance in the form of a flat fee. PPOs also offer slightly more flexibility for out-of-network visits, but at a greater expense to the policy holder, usually in the form of higher deductibles and co-payments.

■ CDH plans put employees on the line, with their employers offering a menu of managed care coverage plans. Participants can choose their own level of coverage and fix their own deductibles, which means that they often assume more cost and risk.

All of this movement, of course, is the result of sharply rising health care costs that lead insurance providers to hike premiums in turn.

"A lot of focus has been on health insurance premiums, but the driving force behind that is the cost of health care," said Susan Gambrill, director of policy and research for the Colorado Insurance Division, the state watchdog agency that monitors the insurance industry.

"Until we do something about the cost of health care, there's not much to be done about the cost of insurance."

Health care costs in Colorado have risen 62.2 percent since 1997, including a projected 14.6 percent spike this year, according to statistics compiled by Mercer Human Resources Consulting, a Denver-based health care strategy

Gambrill said it's a constellation of factors, rather than one or two, that are sending health care costs higher. Here are a few of them:

■ The first members of the "gray wave" of aging baby boomers are making their presence felt in hospitals and doctors' offices, creating demand that is outstripping the ability of the health care system to meet it.

■ Costs of newer, brand-name prescription drugs often cost 10 or more times what insurance co-payments cover.

■ Overhead costs for doctors' practices, including malpractice insurance premiums and rising employee salaries, have added to the burden.

■ Capital investment in medical technology, leading to "arms races" among hospitals and clinics in the quest for new equipment, is passed on to consumers.

"Don't quote me as the authority on this," Gambrill said, "but I recently read that there are more MRIs (magnetic resonance imaging systems) in Denver than there are in all of Canada."

So much for the causes of rising health insurance costs. The effects are that employers are moving rapidly to pass the increases on to workers, to reduce benefits or, in a growing number of cases, to drop coverage altogether.

The most-afflicted employers are the smallest. Alex Caldera, a Fort Collins contractor who hires mostly summer staff to paint houses for AC Painting Co., used to provide health insurance to three full-time employees. But the costs of coverage under one of Colorado's small-group insurance plans last year exceeded his ability to pay.

— Susan Gambrill,
Colorado Insurance Division

"I always wanted to be the good guy, to provide benefits for employees," Caldera said. "But it got to the point where I was shifting so much of it to them that it wasn't worth it. I know some of them have done better on their own, shopping for individual plans. Of course, it helps that they're mostly young, single and in pretty good shape."

On the other end of the spectrum are larger employers with more bargaining power when it comes to seeking health plans. Neenan Cos., one of Northern Colorado's largest design and construction firms and, according to publication surveys, one of the region's most respected employers, has managed to provide a level of benefits that few other companies can match.

Of Neenan's 187 employees, 155 are on a managed care plan that the company selected in January following a health insurance shopping trip, said payroll and benefits manager Karysa McIntire. Another 30 are enrolled in a PPO from the same provider, PacifiCare of Colorado. (The remaining 32 employees have waived coverage, mostly because they have coverage available through spouses.)

No question: Neenan's workforce enjoys one of the best health-care benefit plans in the region. When plans were swapped in January, with PacifiCare replacing Principal Life as the company's provider, the employee share increased "only about a dollar or two a month," McIntire said.

"We took a pretty big hit on our last renewal, so this time we didn't want to do that," she said.

Still, Neenan picks up 85 percent of each covered employee's tab. That means an individual employee pays $37.50 per month toward the $250 monthly premium under the company's HMO plan. An employee with family coverage pays $120 of the $800 monthly cost.

But health care insurance experts say such cases are becoming more rare in Northern Colorado.

"Neenan probably doesn't have to be quite as cost-sensitive as the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker," said Bill Lindsay, principal of Benefit Management and Design Inc. of Denver, a health care benefit-consulting group.

Lindsay's company surveyed 250 employers in 2000 and 80 percent of respondents said they were shifting the cost of higher premiums to their employees. The number grew to 88 percent by late last year, he said.

"Others are not in quite the same boat (as Neenan)," Lindsay said. "As employer health-care costs have spiraled upwards, they've flailed about looking for alternatives. What a lot of employers have been doing is to flee the HMO market for the PPO plans as a way of getting their costs down."

What that means is that many employees, long accustomed to HMO plans where small co-payments cover virtually any health care service, are now faced with deductibles.

"We're seeing, in Denver, that it's not at all unusual for employers to sign on to plans that require $1,000 or $1,500 deductibles annually," Lindsay said. "The employer has felt the need to do this cost-shifting."

Doctor performs first cochlear implant in region

Five-year-old girl is recipient of device that should restore hearing perception

By Poudre Valley Hospital staff

FORT COLLINS — A nationally recognized surgeon who treats patients in Fort Collins and Loveland has helped a five-year-old girl regain her hearing by performing the first cochlear implant procedure in Northern Colorado.

Dr. Rodney P. Lusk, who is affiliated with Alpine Ear, Nose & Throat in Fort Collins and Loveland, performed the surgery at Poudre Valley Hospital on Haley Donaldson, daughter of Kim and John Donaldson of Fort Collins.

Haley was connected to the cochlear implant May 15 and has started a long process of learning how to use the device with the help of her parents and speech therapists, audiologists and other experts.

The surgery implanted an electronic device in Haley's inner ear. A cochlear implant will restore varying levels of hearing in patients who suffer from profound to severe hearing loss and can't be helped with hearing aids.

Haley's surgery was performed April 27. A two-week waiting period is needed before the implanted device is connected for use.

Ideal candidate

Dr. Lusk said Haley was an ideal candidate because she has experience with sound in both ears but lost hearing completely in one ear and has a small reserve in the other. He anticipates she will do "extremely well" with the implant.

Her parents share his optimistic outlook.

"We're really excited about this," said mother Kim Donaldson in the days after the implant. "Haley should soon be hearing sounds that she's never heard before."

Kim said Haley's hearing fluctuated over the years and then declined significantly during the past year. She described Haley as a very social, outgoing child who is happier when she is hearing well.

BETTER FUTURE — Dr. Rodney Lusk, a surgeon affiliated with Alpine Ear, Nose and Throat in Fort Collins and Loveland, talks with five-year-old Haley Donaldson, who recently received the first cochlear implant in Northern Colorado.

The Donaldsons said they feel fortunate to have Dr. Lusk in the community and to be able to have had Haley's implant done at PVH.

Dr. Lusk, who is Northern Colorado's only fellowship-trained pediatric ear, nose and throat specialist in Northern Colorado, Wyoming and western Nebraska, moved to Fort Collins in mid-2002 from St. Louis, where for 18 years he was a professor of otolaryngology and pediatrics at St. Louis Children's Hospital.

Dr. Lusk started the pediatric cochlear implant program in St. Louis and has performed more than 250 procedures.

One of his major goals in Northern Colorado was to create a cochlear implant program that would serve the region.

Rulon Stacey, president and CEO of Poudre Valley Health System which operates Poudre Valley Hospital where the surgery was performed, said PVH was "thrilled to be the first to offer this important service to the region.

"Dr. Lusk is a world-class surgeon who is providing local services that patients once had to travel long distances to receive," Stacey said.

The cochlear implant device picks up sounds with the help of a small, external microphone and speech processor. It converts the sounds to digital signals that are sent to the inner ear where implanted electrodes stimulate the nerves in the cochlea. The auditory nerve then sends electric impulses to the brain, which recognizes the impulses as sounds.

A cochlear implant is an electronic prosthetic device used to replace the damaged hair cells in the inner ear. It consists of an implanted part that is an electronic circuit surgically placed in the skull behind the ear.

Attached to the circuit is a bundle of tiny wires that are inserted into the cochlea itself. Each of the wires is connected to an electrode that stimulates a different set of healthy nerves in the center of the cochlear.

The other part of the device is a small but powerful computer that is worn behind the ear or on the patient's belt. The computer codes, or "maps," sounds from the environment to "fire" certain electrodes in the implanted device. These stimuli are then transmitted to the brain

The Nucleus® cochlear implant system works in the following manner:

1. Sounds are picked up by the small, directional microphone located in the ear level processor.
2. The speech processor filters, analyzes and digitizes the sound into coded signals.
3. The coded signals are sent from the speech processor to the transmitting coil.
4. The transmitting coil sends the coded signals as FM radio signals to the cochlear implant under the skin.
5. The cochlear implant delivers the appropriate electrical energy to the array of electrodes which has been inserted into the cochlea.
6. The electrodes along the array stimulate the remaining auditory nerve fibers in the cochlea.
7. The resulting electrical sound information is sent through the auditory system to the brain for interpretation.

and interpreted as sound. With time, the brain starts to perceive the sounds as having meaning and language starts to develop.

Degree of success varies

Dr. Lusk said the degree of success that any given child will achieve cannot be predicted, but greater success is possible when both parents and child are highly motivated and when the child receives proper training. Implantation of a cochlear implant is the first step of a very long process.

"Patients who have a cochlear implant will hear sounds that they did not with hearing aids," Dr. Lusk said. "Using an implant is a very long-term process requiring intensive auditory training under the guidance of trained professionals. It is very important that children have training to know how to use and understand the new sounds in order to develop speech and oral language."

Both children and adults may be candidates for cochlear implantation.

While Dr. Lusk helps children with many types of ear, nose and throat problems, he feels most gratified by his work with cochlear implant patients and their families. Today, more than 250 children with severe hearing loss can hear and speak because of his work.

"It is without a doubt the most rewarding procedure I have had an opportunity to participate in," he said. "The impact on the lives of the children and their families is astounding."

Dr. Lusk earned a national reputation for his work with cochlear implants at the St. Louis Children's Hospital. He launched the hospital's pediatric cochlear implant program in the early 1990s. While in St. Louis, Dr. Lusk also served as a professor at Washington University School of Medicine. He is also a past president of the American Society of Pediatric Otolaryngology (ASPO) and American Broncho-Esophagological Association (ABEA).

Dr. Lusk worked closely with PVHS to establish a cochlear implant program.

"I've been very impressed by the hospital's professionalism and quality of care," he said. "Poudre Valley Health System is committed to developing pediatric subspecialties to better serve the needs of patients and families."

Left, right, left: 'On the Move' takes baby steps toward fitness

By Tom Hacker

Business Report Correspondent

We're getting fat.

The collective "we" — meaning residents of Northern Colorado — is still not quite as bad as the U.S. population at large. But health agencies have tracked some disturbing trends that show we're heavier, less fit and more sedentary than we used to be.

That's part of the rationale for the emergence of Colorado on the Move, a data-driven initiative to reverse the trend one step at a time. Simply by putting one foot in front of the other, more than 900 people in Larimer County have made the commitment since On the Move's regional program launched in February. They include Girl Scouts and brewery workers, real estate brokers and Rotarians.

Recognize them by the little black boxes clipped to waistbands and belts: They're pedometers, step counters that are the basis of the On the Move program here and elsewhere.

"We're hoping to get people to realize how sedentary they might be during the day," said Kathy Schlepp, who coordinates the program for the Health District of Northern Larimer County, a non-profit public health agency. "It's easy to do. It's inexpensive. Just 12 bucks gets you a pedometer. People don't have to buy a big, expensive piece of equipment."

But On the Move is not some panacea. "This is not intended as a weight-loss program," Schlepp said. But by striving to meet the increased activity goals set in the 15-week program, participants will find better fitness and health a natural outcome.

Armed with results from a community health survey that the Health District conducted in 2001, district administrators applied for grant funding from the Colorado Trust, a statewide grant agency that focuses its work on health issues.

The survey illustrated a disturbing trend: The number of overweight and obese residents of the Health District's service area was soaring. By the numbers, here's what it found:

■ Nearly half the local population — 46 percent — were classified as overweight or obese at the time the survey was taken, up from 38 percent in a similar survey taken six years earlier.

■ People between the ages of 45 and 64 are redefining the "middle-age spread," with 61 percent falling into weight-problem categories in the 2001 survey.

Yes, it could be worse, and is in most other places: Nationally, more than half the population — 57 percent — is classified as either overweight or obese, with 66 percent of adults in those categories.

"We learned there was a need for programs in the community," Schlepp said. "That's when we applied for the grant funding."

Funneled through the regional United Way organization, the $119,000 grant — spread over three years and matched with another $139,000 from the Health District — pays administrative costs for On the Move. Schlepp said she hoped to bring 60 organizations, including employers, non-profit agencies, service clubs and church

Getting on the move

If your organization is interested in participating in the Health District On the Move program, contact Kathy Schlepp at 224-5209. A $12 fee covers the cost of each participant's pedometer. For more information and a list of participating organizations, log on at www.healthdistrict.org, and click on the "On the Move" links.

groups, on board by the end of the year.

The 31 participating organizations in Northern Colorado, most of them in the Fort Collins area, have logged onto On the Move since February. Some are piling up some impressive numbers. At Anheuser Busch's Fort Collins brewery, pedometers worn by 188 employees have logged more than 44 million steps since they began the 15-week program. At an average 2,000 steps per mile, the AB workers have collectively covered 22,000 miles, a distance nearly equal to the Earth's circumference.

At The Group Inc. Real Estate, where 114 staff members and brokers started the program in February when it launched, On the Move became more than a mere walk, said Sharon Ferguson, managing broker at The Group's Windsor office and organizer of the agency's On the Move program.

"It became very competitive,"

Ferguson said. "There were a lot of cases where there was some definite competition going on. People were always comparing pedometer totals. It makes you very aware of how little activity we really do."

Most of the organizations participating in On the Move are smaller. Of the 13 full-time employees of the Food Bank of Larimer County, 10 have worn pedometers since the group joined the movement in early May.

"It's something that brings us together more as a team," said Ginny Teel, the Food Bank's accountant and coordinator of its On the Move program. "We talk about it a lot. We're always showing our pedometers around. Some of our people in the warehouse are really racking up the steps."

The program's goal is to raise the level of participants' activity gradually. People who wear the pedometers log in their step totals on a password-protected Health District Web site daily. By raising their weekly totals by 20 percent, they work toward a goal of 10,000 steps daily — about five miles. But nobody's keeping score, really. If someone starts out with a 3,000-step-per-day count, and raises it to 7,000 in 15 weeks, the objective is at hand, Schlepp said.

"The reason we're doing this in groups is because there's some built-in support there," she said. "People reinforce each other. We're hoping that people will get more of an awareness of their physical activity."

"Use the stairs. Park a little further away. Simple things."

Teel said she and other Food Bank staffers will likely keep stepping out when their program ends in September.

"We're only scheduled for 15 weeks, but I expect we'll all be wearing our pedometers well after that," she said. "We think it's great that the health district is offering this. It's keeping people focused."

NCMC diagnostic unit latest in new medical facilities in region

The Business Report

GREELEY — Patients of North Colorado Medical Center should have an easier time getting their health problems diagnosed since NCMC moved its diagnostic services to a new westside location on June 2.

NCMC moved its diagnostic services department from the hospital's main campus in central Greeley to the new Summit View Medical Commons in west Greeley at 2001 70th Ave.

"This new facility will provide easier patient access, convenient parking and the latest technology and services available to deliver quality health care to residents in our service area," said Jon Sewell, NCMC's CEO.

The new facility also offers more space and privacy for patients, said NCMC spokeswoman Cassandra Gardner. "It is much bigger as far as the registration area and it also increases the privacy tremendously," she said.

Gardner said those using the facility would be coming for scheduled patient procedures and tests. "The type of person coming here would be for radiology, lab draws and specimen drop-offs," she said. "We'll be able to get them in and out in a shorter amount of time and in a relatively fluid way."

The new facility includes state-of-the-art diagnostic equipment in magnetic resonance imaging, computer tomography (catscanning), ultrasound, bone densitometry, mammography and EKG.

NCMC's anticoagulation clinic, with more than 700 patients, is also being housed in the new facility. A full retail pharmacy, scheduled to open in August, will be available to serve anticoagulation and other patients. NCMC's blood donor department and blood bank operations will remain at the main hospital.

The area of the main hospital that previously served as the diagnostic center will be remodeled and house expanded cancer services and a Cancer Center later this summer.

Summit View Medical Commons is a 70,000-square-foot medical office building developed by the NCMC Inc. board of directors. The basement and most of the first floor (28,000 square feet) have been leased by Banner Health/NCMC to provide outpatient diagnostic services.

A portion of the first floor has been leased to Greeley Medical Clinic for an urgent care clinic, which opened June 3. NCMC Inc. plans to lease the remaining space in the building to other health care providers.

NCMC's new diagnostic services facility is the latest in a series of health-care expansions in Northern Colorado.

center are Sarjvit Gill, Rodney Lusk, Kenneth Pettine, Jeffrey Donner, Eric Young and Brad Sisson.

The 8,500-square-foot facility includes 19 beds and support areas. Financing for the surgery center was provided by Home State Bank of Loveland.

A growing need for an expanded intensive-care unit at Longmont United Hospital was the driving force behind the opening of a $3.03 million ICU on May 13.

The 13,000-square-foot unit includes 16 beds and is designed to provide care for critically ill patients who need constant observation and monitoring.

In late 2002, Longmont United Hospital began providing open heart/thoracic surgery and 24-hour neurological surgery. These additional services, coupled with anticipated population growth, resulted in the need to expand the existing ICU, hospital officials said.

Compared with the same time last year, the number of patients needing intensive-care services at Longmont United has increased by nearly 50 percent.

In early May, Greeley X-Ray Group and Greeley Orthopedic Associates announced they would collaborate on the purchase of the former State Farm Insurance building at 5890 13th St. in Greeley to house expanded services for their patients.

In April, NCMC and Banner Health announced they would jointly fund construction of a new $1.2 million family practice clinic in Eaton. Banner is also working with several physician practices to build a new $20 million, 80,000-square-foot outpatient facility in Loveland.

And a new outpatient clinic is being planned for southwest Weld County under a combined effort of the Longmont clinic and Longmont United Hospital. The clinic, to be called the Carbon Valley Medical Center, will be located in Firestone.

Insurance Glossary and Facts

Prepared by Polly Anderson, Health Services District

Glossary of Terms

Business Group of One (BG1) — Classification of sole proprietors (or a sole employee of an organization or domestic employee working more than 24 hours) for the purpose of purchasing policies in the small business market.

COBRA — Allows employees to retain their employer-based health insurance coverage up to 18 months after employment termination at up to 105% of policy cost (a provision of the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985). Available to businesses of 20 or more (there are state continuation laws that cover smaller groups).

Coinsurance — Patient pays a fixed percentage of medical bills, typically 20%. Generally associated with indemnity plans (PPOs).

Co-payments — Flat, per visit fee paid by patient. General associated with HMO plans.

Deductibles — Patient pays the first part of medical bill(s) up to a defined point at which point coinsurance applies.

Defined Benefit/Defined Contribution Plans — Employers have traditionally purchased a specific set of benefits for their employees (defined benefit plans). With rising premiums, some employers are now giving employees a choice of plans with varied coverage, co-payments, deductibles and costs and contributing a set amount to the employee's policy (defined contribution).

Fee for service — The common provider reimbursement method prior to managed care (provider receives fee for each service provided)

Managed Care — A plan that requires (HMO) or incents (PPO) people to use a network of providers (unlike an indemnity plan which typically allows beneficiaries to visit any provider). Can be a health maintenance organization (HMO), a preferred provider organization (PPO) or a point of service (POS) plan.

Medical Savings Accounts — MSAs allow individuals to set aside tax-deductible savings to pay for medical bills. Federal law requires that MSAs be associated with qualifying catastrophic policies.

Network Adequacy — Colorado law requires that carriers maintain a sufficient network of providers to assure that covered benefits are reasonably accessible to covered persons.

Portability — The ability of a currently insured person (or insured within last 90 days) to continue health insurance coverage without being subject to pre-existing conditions exclusions. In Colorado, the following rules apply to exclusions:

Group insurance — may exclude pre-existing for 6 months if no prior coverage (not maternity)

Individual — may exclude pre-existing for 12 months or permanently if attached to policy when written (as a rider)

Rating

Community rating — Everyone in a particular area is charged the same rate

Experience rating — Rating based on claims experience or health status

Modified community rating — Variation on community rating (limited adjustments for age, geographic location and family composition allowed under CO law)

Rate banding — Rate variation (within limits) based on health status or other factors

Safety net providers — Healthcare providers that give service regardless of ability to pay (typically hospitals, community health centers and clinics)

Self-Funded Insurance — In self-funded insurance, employers assume the risk (all or part) of insuring their employees. An insurance company or other third-party administrator generally administers these plans. These plans are exempt from state insurance laws. From an employer's perspective, self-funding allows:

- Avoidance of administrative charges
- Exemption from state mandated coverage
- Exemption from state premium taxes
- Companies with employees in multiple states to offer the same plan to every employee

Local Insurance Coverage<sup>1</sup>

Type of insurance coverage	Percentage
Commercial	82
Medicare	7
Medicaid	2
None	10

Where Do Most People Get Their Insurance Coverage?<sup>2</sup>

	Colorado #	Colorado %	US #	US %
Employer	2,614,350	65	158,527,170	58
Individual	208,880	5	12,983,140	5
Medicaid	209,100	5	27,884,880	10
Medicare	345,940	9	31,360,750	11
Uninsured	632,910	16	42,553,620	16
Total	4,011,170	100	273,309,560	100

Insurance Status Affects Health

■ The uninsured have more difficulty accessing the health care system<sup>3</sup>, are more likely to postpone or delay care<sup>4</sup> and are less likely to receive important preventive care services.<sup>5</sup>

■ The uninsured have higher rates of preventable hospitalization<sup>6</sup>, receive lower quality care<sup>7</sup> and experience more adverse health outcomes, including higher death rates.<sup>8</sup>

Why Insure for Health?

Health insurance:

- Covers unforeseeable catastrophic health events (unpredictable for the insured; predictable for the insurer)
- Reduces the financial vulnerability of individuals and groups by spreading the risk
- Finances the healthcare “system”

A Brief History of the American Health Insurance “System”

According to the Access Project<sup>9</sup>, most countries use insurance to finance healthcare, but the United States is unusual in that it relies primarily on a voluntary, employment-based system instead of mandatory social insurance. The system began, in part, during the Depression as a prepayment program to bolster ailing hospitals and eventually physician practices.

Insurance became employment based with the wage and price controls imposed during WWII. With wage freezes, employers used health insurance to lure workers into unfilled positions. After the war, unions continued the fight for health insurance coverage and the practice grew with the passage of federal tax policies allowing businesses to claim premiums as business expenses and employees to receive insurance as a tax-free benefit.

Problems With the American System of Insuring for Health

- Insurance isolates consumers from the real costs of healthcare (moral hazard)
- Avoiding risk is profitable for carriers (underwriting)
- People want insurance coverage when they’re sick (adverse selection)
- Commercial insurance carrier overhead varies from 10-30% compared to less than 5% for Medicare<sup>10</sup>
- Decisions made by healthcare providers are influenced by carrier coverage and reimbursement, consumer demand and litigation avoidance
- Large groups can negotiate better rates than small groups
- Many people have problems accessing and affording health insurance in our current system, especially:
  - Small businesses and the self employed
  - Part-time and contract workers
  - Low/moderate income individuals

Market Rating practices Exclusions Mandated coverage

Large group (51+) Carriers rate on each group’s experience
May exclude pre-existing for 6 months if no prior coverage (except maternity)

All policies must include coverage for newborns, child immunization, congenital defect therapies, pregnancy and childbirth complications, low-dose mammography, dependent children, adopted children, prostate cancer screening, child health supervision services (immunizations), dental anesthesia for kids, diabetes and prosthetics.

Group must also cover maternity

Group policies (large and small) must also include maternity, mental illness and biologically based mental illness coverage.

Small group (1 – 50)

Modified community rating — rating based on all small groups insured by carrier except may adjust rate for age and geography
May exclude pre-existing for 6 months if no prior coverage (except maternity)

Individual market May rate on health status

No guarantee issue (may refuse to underwrite)

No guarantee renewal (don’t have to renew contract if they don’t like your claims experience) May exclude pre-existing conditions for 12 months or attach rider to policy at time of issue to permanently exclude
All mandates listed above except maternity and mental illness

Who Governs the Market?

Government is involved in regulating:<sup>11</sup>

1. Access (help buyers into the market)
2. Solvency (keep sellers in the market)
3. Stability (make sure there will be a market)
4. Transparency (show what’s in the market)
5. Standards (define what can be sold)
6. Pools (define who sells to whom)

About a third of insured Coloradans have policies governed by the Division of Insurance, part of the Colorado Division of Regulatory Agencies. The policies of the other two-thirds of insured Coloradans are exempt from state regulation because they are enrolled in Medicaid, Medicare, CHP, federal employee plans or in a self-funded plan. [ERISA – the federal Employment Retirement Income Security Act – exempts self-funded plans from state law.]

The following federal laws do govern all health coverage:

- HMO Act 1973
- ERISA 1974
- OBRA 1990 (Medigap)
- COBRA
- HIPAA 1996
- Mental health parity laws (1996 and 1998)
- Minimum maternity stays and breast reconstruction for post-mastectomy patients

Insurance Reform in the 1990s

Prior to the state level insurance reforms enacted in the 1990s, consumers experienced problems with coverage exemptions for pre-existing conditions, rising rates due to adverse claims experiences and coverage denial due to lifestyle. Reform in Colorado included:

Reform Purpose/Notes

Guaranteed renewal Ensures that individuals or businesses that meet appropriate criteria aren’t denied renewal, regardless of group health status

Guaranteed issue Ensures that individuals or businesses that meet appropriate criteria could obtain coverage from insurers

Modified community rating Ensures that all policy holders within certain defined groups are charged the same rate, eliminates health status as a rating criteria

In the group market, age and geographic location may be used in rate setting

Portability Prevents denial of coverage for previously insured individuals with pre-existing conditions

Business group of one Allowing sole proprietors (and sole employees and domestic employees) to purchase insurance in the small business group market (with limited enrollment periods)

Network adequacy Requires all PPO & HMO plans to maintain a network sufficient in provider numbers and types to assure that covered benefits are accessible without unreasonable delay

Additional reforms added certain medical conditions and preventive screenings to a list of state mandated coverage. Unlike other reforms addressing affordability and availability, mandates were intended to guarantee a certain level of coverage and to prevent under-insurance.

About this Primer

This primer was originally prepared to assist the Health District Board of Directors in understanding health insurance issues. Special thanks to Susan Gambrill at the Division of Insurance and Kristen Thomson at the Colorado Consumer Health Initiative for their help preparing this primer. Orthopaedics is the diagnosis and treatment of bone, joint, tendon and nerve disorders of the back, limbs and neck. It's the medicine of motion.

On the job, motion sometimes causes injury. Early diagnosis and treatment of work-related injuries, helps both the employee and employer.

When someone gets hurt at work, contact your occupational health care provider and ask for a referral to Orthopaedic Center of the Rockies. We'll diagnose the problem and work to correct it as quickly—and as cost-effectively—as possible. We know getting employees back on the job is a big concern.
